- Case 11: The film thickness profile shows three distinct rectangular regions of constant thickness. The light intensity profile shows three corresponding peaks of equal height.
- Case 12: The film thickness profile shows three trapezoidal regions. The light intensity profile shows three peaks of equal height.
- Case 13: The film thickness profile shows three trapezoidal regions with a different shape than Case 12. The light intensity profile shows three peaks of equal height.
- Case 14: The film thickness profile shows three trapezoidal regions with a different shape. The light intensity profile shows three peaks of equal height.
- Case 15: The film thickness profile shows three trapezoidal regions with a different shape. The light intensity profile shows three peaks of equal height.
